10 pts. 1. ANSWER USING THE A(answer) L(legal basis) A(analysis) Method. Your answer should have a minimum of three (3) sentences.

A foreign commercial ship was spotted by the Philippine Coast Guard dumping garbage and toxic waste 20 nautical miles from Nasugbu, Batangas, the nearest coastline of the Philippines. The officers of the ship were arrested and charged in the Regional Trial Court (RTC) of Batangas for violation of environmental laws of the Philippines. The officers of the ship filed a motion to dismiss the case on the ground that Philippine courts do not have territorial jurisdiction over the case since the vessel was sailing outside the territorial sea of the Philippines when the arrest was made.

Is the ground to dismiss correct? (10 pts.)

Your answer:

No, the ground to dismiss is not correct as the Philippine courts do have jurisdiction over the case. According to UNCLOS, territory that is 13-24 nautical miles from the baseline (otherwise, the contiguous zone) is subject to laws of sanitation, environmental, and customs. Therefore, as the foreign commercial ship had dumped the waste 20 nautical miles under the baseline, it violates sanitation laws that continue to become prevalent in the contiguous zone. Ultimately, the court rightfully has jurisdiction over the foreign commercial ship.

Correct answer explanation: N/A
